Sara Merino

Coupled Self-Organized Hydrodynamics and Stokes models for suspensions of active particles

We derive macroscopic dynamics for collective motion in a fluid. The starting point is a coupled Vicsek-Stokes system. The Vicsek model describes self-propelled agents interacting through alignment. It provides a phenomenological description of steric interactions between agents at high density. Stokes equations describe a low Reynolds number fluid.